

Press Release

Contact: Rex Anderson- 713.263.5064-rex.anderson@goodmanmfg.com

CCOM Group Receives Harold V. Goodman Award

Houston, June 11, 2019 - In recognition of outstanding sales and distribution performance for the fiscal year 2018, CCOM Group has received the prestigious Harold V. Goodman award.

The award, named in honor of the founder of the Goodman brand – who introduced affordable and energy-efficient heating and cooling systems to the HVAC industry – the Harold V. Goodman award is presented annually to the most outstanding independent distributor of the year based on multiple benchmarks.

“It takes hard work and dedication to achieve this level of recognition,” states Brad Snyder, EVP of Sales and Distribution for Goodman. “I salute the entire team at CCOM Group as they have demonstrated an extraordinary level of performance.”

To qualify for the Harold V. Goodman award, an independent distributor must have:

- A minimum of 15 years of service as a Goodman or Amana brand HVAC distributor
- Achieved consistent sales growth each year
- Delivered best-in-class customer service
- Shown consistent improvements in business processes year-over-year

For nearly 100 years, CCOM Group, Inc., and its affiliates have been recognized as an industry leader in HVAC distribution. Through its subsidiaries and divisions, including Universal Supply Group, RAL Supply Group, S&A Supply, CCOM provides services to contractors and builders in the residential and commercial markets, while upholding the uncompromising principles established by the organization. CCOM’s reach extends from Western Massachusetts, through the Hudson Valley, to Central New Jersey, Westchester County, and Long Island. CCOM Group’s management team is well diversified and consists of long-time industry leaders.

During fiscal 2018, CCOM group’s exemplary performance included as sales performance growth of over 45% compared to the prior year.